

News From The Museum

Museum Notes

We recently held our annual observance of Police Officer Memorial Day here at The American Police Hall of Fame & Museum, the nation's oldest and largest law enforcement museum. We had over 1,300 people participate in the twilight ceremony honoring police officers who have died in the line of duty. More than 400 family survivors attended along with hundreds of law enforcement officers, state and local dignitaries and the general public. Florida Governor Rick Scott attended as well. This is always a very moving ceremony!

We have several exciting new exhibits in the works and we are working hard to bring them to fruition. We are also continuing to work on a really nice acquisition that will remarkably enhance the scope of what we do at this facility.

The summer is looking to be very busy as our tour calendar is rather booked up with groups of all ages and varieties.

Please give a warm and sincere 'thank you' to the law enforcement officers in your community every time you have a chance. You'll be glad you did.

Shooting Center Bullets

Traffic at the Shooting Center continues to be very high as we are on pace for yet another record level of shooters! Our schedule is quite full as we now have thirteen private security and/or training companies that conduct training here, and that does not include police departments. The range is easily able to accommodate that as we have two separate bays so the general public can enjoy one bay while specific training for one of the training companies can be held in the other bay. We continue to see first time shooters of all ages and genders every day and these are people who want to learn about firearms, how to operate them safely and be better able to provide for their own safety. Our professional, NRA certified staff has advanced training in virtually every discipline and application of the shooting sports. With such a fine staff and the amenities of HEPA air filtration, computerized target system, full air conditioning and granular rubber backstop, the Shooting Center is among the nicest firearms training facilities in the United States.

Have you been to your local range lately?

Training Center Update

The Training Center continues to be a hopping place with groups that choose to avail themselves to a superb venue for events. Our facility, with the Museum, the Training Center and the Shooting Center all on site under one roof, is highly regarded as a wonderful place to hold everything from family reunions and wedding receptions to private law enforcement and security training. Functions were recently hosted here by Lockheed Martin, Pinkerton Government Services, Brevard Law Ride, Florida Sport Shooting Association, Coastal Police Benevolent Association, East Coast Pop Warner and the Moonlight Quilters.
